Some people seem to have a special attraction for lice. It is known that lice will leave the bodies of those who are less attractive to them for those who seem, for some unknown reason, to be preferable.

There are several kinds of lice which may infest human beings. Most of them prefer the human scalp, except for the so-called "crab louse" which goes to the groin.

Personal cleanliness is the most important part of prevention. There is no doubt that bathing in warm water and the use of soap at least once a week, together with frequent changes into clean clothing, will reduce the chances of acquiring lice.

With the "Nits"

There now several very satisfactory methods of eliminating lice from the human body. Among these newer methods are the use of known as benzyl benzoate, and for DDT powder, a substance which kills lice, a kind of bomb made up of what is called pyrethrum, which can be sprayed over the entire body in a few seconds, providing a suitable place is available.

In order to make any of these treatments successful, however, it is important to follow directions closely and, in the case of head lice, to guard against injuries to the eyes.

Lice by eggs, or nits, on the body. These hatch in about seven days. The nits are not destroyed by most forms of treatment, so that more than one treatment is often necessary. DDT, however, is the exception because it kills nits after the nits have hatched.

DOROTHY DIX Jealous Mothers

Practically all mothers want their daughters to marry and the do their utmost to help them corral husbands, but it is the rarest thing for a mother to make any effort to teach her daughters how to handle the men that they have married. They seem to think that invaluable knowledge comes along with the wedding present; and the white satin and champagne.

Every mother knows from her own experience that pulling off a successful marriage isn't a matter of luck or inspiration. It takes about 20 years of time and barrels of tears for a bride to acquire the self-control, patience, tact and knowhow that enables her to keep her husband eating out of her hand and liking it.

So it would seem that mothers would spend as much time briefing their daughters about how to get along with their husbands as they did in luring him into the matrimonial fold, but such is not the case. After the wedding Mother turns into a critic on the heels of the bride, instead of a promoter of connubial bliss.

Probably few women are cruel enough to want to alienate their daughters from the husbands they love and break up their homes, yet thousands of them do it through jealousy of which they are unconscious. They wanted their daughters to marry, but they cannot bear the thought that Susie and Marrie love their husbands better than they do them. They are upsets because they no longer are the oracles to them that they were when their daughters were little girls with pigtails.

Begins Alienation
When Mother descends upon the newlyweds before they even have time to unpack their wedding gifts—because she can't endure being paraded from her darling daughter—she has taken the first step in the instigation of an alienation suit that may follow sooner or later.

Father Mother will always be unloved. The young husband and wife will have no privacy. They can never have a spat, kiss and make up because Mother will always be refreshing it, and urging Susie to stand firm and not give in to her husband.

Worse still, Mother, without realizing it, begins a smear campaign on Susie's husband that takes all of the glory out of her romance and makes her think that she has brown herself away on a poor dud who wasn't worth picking up. When Mother suggests to Susie that it is just too bad that Bob is such a poor business man, or that his able manners need correcting, or that his taste in neckties is awful, or that he doesn't take her step-dance, or that he is not as good as the first, another marriage has gone bloomy.

And, of course, Mother doesn't mean any harm. Why, she wouldn't be wicked enough to break up Susie's marriage for anything. But she turns the trick by plying Susie with the fact that how hard Susie has to work, and Susie not having any pretty clothes, and Susie not being able to do this or that, until Susie takes her troubles to Mother, who gives her a rosy welcome for she didn't expect her jealousy to take her that far.

All of which boils down to the fact that Mother jealousy breaks up more homes than she makes. Many mothers who are not even aware of it all mothers acted upon the advice that one old woman I knew gave her daughters when they married. She said: "Stick to your job, I didn't rear you to be quitters."

Proposes Drivers Test Every Three Years

Little Rock, Aug. 30 —(AP)—State Police Director J. R. Porter proposed today that Arkansas automobile drivers be required to take a test every three years to retain their licenses.

He also suggested at a meeting of the Arkansas Safety Council that the state police department patrol the highways to police air traffic. The council said the proposals would be made to the legislature.

Under Porter's plan, driver's licenses would be issued by the state police instead of the state revenue department.

Drivers now are required to take a test only before they are licensed to drive for the first time. There are approximately 615,000 licensed drivers in Arkansas.

Under the police head's air patrol plan, pilots still would have to be licensed only by the civil aeronautics authority but state police would have a regular air patrol to police the highways.

Porter said he would retire as state police director when Gov. Laney leaves office next January and that the proposals were not for his benefit.

It takes about 2,850 tons of coal to make a ton of coke.

By law, nine U. S. states specifically prohibit a man from marrying his wife's grandmother.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1947
By King Features Syndicate.

New York, Aug. 30.—The concern of the inveterate bleeding heart for those who assume the habits and frequent the haunts of Bolshevism but stop short of joining commands more suspicious than sympathy.

The only one who would be immune would be President Harry Truman, himself. Mr. Truman never will be suspected of any intelligent political conviction and his allegation that Red herings have been hauled across his desk will be recognized as the honest sordid retort of a genuinely stupid court-house politician.

Mr. Truman would not defend or conceal muscovite schemes against this land of the pilgrim's pride except incidentally for some higher purpose. Those who save old clippings of significant false moves will be likely to have one wherein the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, a guru named McGrath, got up at a political drinking in California winter and said that the spirit of F. D. Roosevelt would be the Democratic nominee in 1948, running for a fifth term, and that Mr. Truman would merely try to catch up with him in his aerial and act upon them. There was no protest for the president to protest against this sincere aspersions, the most degrading compliment that one eminent nonentity ever received from a peer. For Mr. Truman is, indeed, attempting to vindicate Roosevelt and to win in his name, and that is the reason why he is put to the gross but easy dishonesty of denying that the administration which he inherited from Roosevelt was, and is, crawling with traitors.

The charges currently heard refer to a time when the late matama was as sane as he ever was in his life. He knew that he was leading his administration with Communists. Overt and covert, whose loyalty would be tested by his denials and his counter-attacks on the grounds of righteousness. They are Roosevelt's Communists.

Like Roosevelt's widow, his sons, Elliott and Jimmy, and his dog, were not condoned, excused, even explained, not for their own sake, but for the sake of the party.

Many other defenders of the great sedition have taken as their text a book of remarkably tawdry doctrine by one Bert Andrews, a Washington correspondent of the New York Herald-Tribune. It is called "Washington Witch-Hunt."

Mr. Andrews is not a good writer even by the slackest unperturbed Washington standard. This was bad enough in the days of Warren G. Harding, whose little circle of playful porch-climbers and girder-snappers were not exposed until Senator Walsh, of Montana, spat on his hands and sank his pick in pay dirt. By miracle of laziness, venality and stupidity so gross as to jeopardize the charter of a free press, the standard has been even worse during the 16 years of Roosevelt and Truman.

Reporters have ignored historic news or verified it privately only so as to be able to "rationalize" it if it ever should be exposed by honest men. In the Washington argot is to justify some cowardly against fundamental morals and civic decency, by comparing it to some spectacular crime perhaps in the Grant administration.

Mr. Andrews' book is a plea at the instance of a team of self-serving New Deal lawyers and bureaucrats. It happens that one of them, Thurman Arnold, once told me he knew of no Communists in Washington although he had on his staff in the Department of Justice at that moment an assistant, from Harvard, of course, who had shown his Communist party card to me and others. Mr. Andrews' book is a terrible warning over the tenacious possibility that some person might be falsely accused by personal enemies and dismissed from a job in the government.

This work was quickly singled out for a page one award of the New York Newspaper Guild, a distinction which has been lately impugned by honest, non-Communist members of that mysterious political society. The book tended to discredit the difficult and often clumsy work of the Congressional committee on Un-American Activities and the loyalty tests and standards which have been the only defense against Roosevelt's folly. The next honor to Mr. Andrews was the Heywood Brown Award, a memorial to a sly, untruthful fellow-traveler.

Who persecuted to the extent of a remarkably cruel nature all reporters of inferior rank and pay who had the temerity to object to personal and political leadership and damn his intimate company of licentious night club boys.

Finally, after an interesting crusade of intimidation against the committee which confers the Pulitzer awards, Mr. Andrews' company received the capital prize of the profession. It was the worst selection in the history of the Pulitzer awards, not even defensible by the standards implicated in the work itself and the conditions of the gift.

The book is the whole which, in reptilian case of the sneak in government who arouses fair suspicions and then, like so many of the witnesses hauled before the committees, instead of helping his government to put down an alien conspiracy, became a part of the Congressional committee to prove a case according to the most stilted judicial principles.

Mr. Truman and I dare say, Mr. Andrews and the Herald-Tribune are finding, however, that the public sentiment defeats them.

They may well howl for strict court procedure and the observance of the sacred legal forms. For they know that Congress can not meet those requirements. They know also, that with good prosecution by honest men before impartial non-political American courts, the clients of their solicitude would hang.

Big 7 Teams Start Annual Grind

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—(AP)—There wasn't a trace of football weather, but five members of the Big Seven conference began their grid season yesterday.

The first-day routine was light for most of the squads, however, with temperatures ranging in the 80's and 90's.

Missouri, pegged as the team likely to win the conference this year, had the roughest schedule. A workout included a brief flurry of blocking and tackling. A twice-daily practice session starts today. Approximately 60 players reported.

In a recent informal poll, the conference's head football coaches picked Missouri to finish first, Oklahoma second and Kansas third. Oklahoma and Kansas are the defending co-champions.

SPORTS ROUNDOUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—It was supposed to be a vacation trip. In Ann Arbor, Mich., Les Eiler was telling how the immortal Willie Heston came to the University of Michigan from San Jose, Calif., College.

Seems that Fielding Y. Heston, had done a special coaching job to give San Jose a championship and Heston decided to follow him to Michigan even though he had a financial struggle to stay there. In the middle of the conference, a lot of money was expected, a lot from Gene Derricotte this season.

You know, Gene is such a modest kid that when he writes his father in Ohio, he never tells what he's doing in football—and his dad is a great football fan.

Quick Decision
A few miles farther along at Alma, Mich., while Bo McMillin was bemoaning a shortage of good linemen for the Detroit Lions, drummer Nick Kerbyway, the guy with the gaudy shirts, reported he had "a fight" after leaving the "ring." While he was away, he was for Michigan State College. Nick fought futilely for an elevator to the lefty press box at the rebuild stadium. Everyone said no until the college president made an inspection tour and had to climb up there. The crowd had the order for an elevator went through.

Champ Recruiter
In quiet Ripon, Wis., ebullient Ed McKeever was praising center John Rapacz and the rest of his Chicago Rockets linemen. "If they had one more really good guard—a guy who could do anything—the Rockets could win in any company," Ed explained. "And if I could have my choice, I named Bill Fischer from Notre Dame. . . . There's one athlete who doesn't have to look far for a job."

It all goes to prove that you can't entirely escape sports.

Bench Warmer
Carrying Bums Through

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The rampaging Brooklyn Dodgers could thank the finest collection of "bench warmers" in the majors today for the amazing drive that finds them pacing the National League.

If the old baseball adage that a team is no stronger than its bench still holds true, then Brooklyn is the mightiest club in the business.

For no other team can boast a greater number of players who can play third base and the outfield; Carl Furillo, rated last year as one of the top flycatchers in the league; Pete Reiser, an old stand-by with a knack of delivering in the clutch; and Bruce Edwards, a hard-hitting catcher who can play third base and the outfield; Carl Furillo, rated last year as one of the top flycatchers in the league; Pete Reiser, an old stand-by with a knack of delivering in the clutch; and Bruce Edwards, a hard-hitting catcher who can play third base and the outfield.

The strength of the Dodgers' bench brigade never was more evident than the yesterday when four pinch-hitters came through in a climatic four-run rally in the ninth inning that gave them a 6 to 5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a double-header.

Chen Huan, the Chinese "Cannon" back in the opener, the bounding Brooks breezed to a 6 to 1 triumph in the nightcap that gave them a clean sweep of the four-game series and extended their winning streak to eight straight.

Two former Dodgers helped their old team widen their league lead as Dixie Walker hit a first-inning homer with a man on base and 41-year-old Fritz Ostermueler scattered nine hits to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2 to 1 victory over the second-place Boston Braves.

The American League race was tightened as the second place New York Yankees and the third place Cleveland Indians scored night victories while the front-running Boston Red Sox were idle.

Frank (Spec) Shea was robbed of a no-hit game when his pitching rival Hal Newhouser, singled in the eighth inning, as the Yankees except to within a game of the lead by beating the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 0. Shea walked only one man in his most brilliant performance since the 1947 World Series.

Cleveland managed to within a game and a half of the top as Sam Rice, the ancient Negro right-hander, yielded seven hits in beating the Washington Senators, 10 to 1. The victory was Paige's sixth against an opponent.

In the only other major league game, the Chicago White Sox pushed across five runs with a game in the north to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 6.

Regular Season Ends Tonight in Cotton Loop

By The Associated Press
The Cotton States League ends its regular season tonight with return matches of Monday's games between the first and second division.

Greenwood, the season champion, was the only first division team to come through with a victory. The Dodgers defeated the cellar-dwelling El Dorado 9-4.

Seventh-place Pine Bluff topped Clarkdale, the league's runner-up, 9-4. Helena trounced third-place Hot Springs, 13-4, and Greenville thumped fourth-place Natchez 12-6.

The Dodgers were aided by five El Dorado errors. Greenwood pitchers Ed Privette and Lelde Dean limited the Oilers to five hits.

The Cardinals banged out 16 hits off three Clarkdale pitchers while the Planters got 11.

Ten errors and 22 hits were recorded in the Helena-Hot Springs game. Helena made more errors—six—but also made more hits—15—for the victory.

Natchez overcame a 7-0 Greenville lead, scoring eight runs in the third and fourth innings, but the Indians came back with a big sixth inning rally that netted five runs and the game.

After tonight, the second division teams will be through for the year. The top four teams, however, will start only one day before beginning sloughing playoffs.

Delegates to Try to Work Out Plan

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Delegates from Western Germany headed today for their Rhine city to form a West German government, despite heated Russian opposition.

The task of a parliamentary council, convening tomorrow, will be to agree on a constitution for the British, American, and French zones, leaving the door open for the Russians to join the empire.

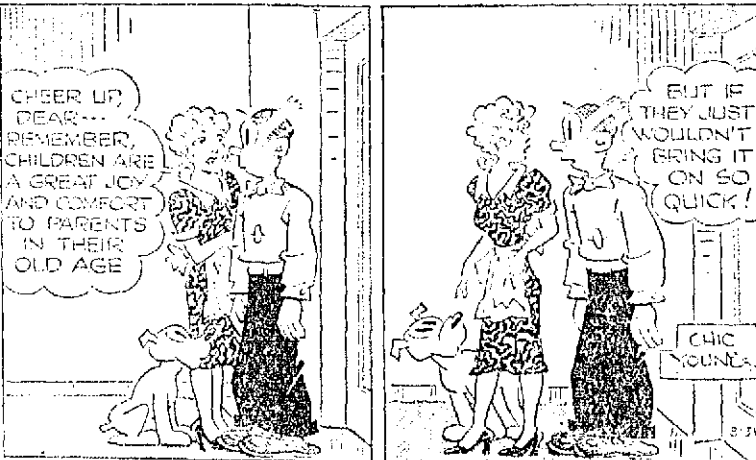

By stressing the open door, the conferees hope to counter a Communist-sponsored propaganda campaign charging the proposed government would split Germany.

Military governors of the three western zones are expected to attend the opening ceremonies. Estimates on the length of the conference run from two weeks to two months.

German political leaders said a prolonged debate by the constitution builders can be expected on at least two topics:

U. S. Probes Senate Post Squabble

New Orleans Aug. 30 —(UP)—Congressional investigators today started inquiring into a report that the senators of Louisiana were called to the state capital last week and told to make sure that Russell B. Long, son of the late kingfish, is nominated to a U. S. Senate seat tomorrow.

Russell Long is opposed by Judge Robert E. Keannon leader of the anti-Long forces in the state, in a democratic primary election tomorrow. Two U. S. Senate seats seven seats in Congress and dozens of state and municipal offices are at stake.

William E. Murray chief of the special congressional investigating committee, said he would personally investigate the report about the sheriffs. He said his first witness will be Sheriff C. F. Rowley of St. Bernard Parish.

Mr. Rowley will answer all the questions I ask," Murray said. "If he doesn't, he will be subpoenaed for contempt of Congress—and that carries a six months to five year prison sentence upon conviction."

Murray declined to say where he had got the report about the sheriffs being summoned to Baton Rouge, the state capital. But he said Rowley "will give me the answers."

He said he was directing a "well organized group of men and women" who are investigating complaints that there may be dishonesty in tomorrow's primary.

The complaints have come mainly from south Louisiana and our agents are concentrated in that area," he said. "We do have an agent up in north Louisiana though. For the past four weeks we have been setting up our vote-checking organization here."

"We will check every phase of the election—from the actual voting to the certified returns," he said. "We will be especially watchful of voting procedures involving persons unable to read or write. Immediately after these persons vote, one of our agents will walk up and check the ballot to make sure it is filled out exactly as the voter wished."

He said he already had a "big stack" of subpoenas filled out with blank spaces for the names of any persons the investigators may want to question.

"We are going to be very tough if we have to be," he said.

U. S., Russians Argue Over Orphan Girl

Berlin, Aug. 30 —(AP)—A German policeman stood guard today over a crippled orphan girl whose custody is in dispute between the United States and Russia. He said his orders are "to keep the Russians away."

The girl, Helena Korbilko, 14, is in Catholic hospital in the American sector of Berlin. She is of Ukrainian parentage, and is in need of an operation to correct a condition caused by infantile paralysis. She has been unable to walk for two years.

The Russians claim her as a Soviet national and have demanded they be given custody of the child and have offered to pay the required surgical attention. In one attempt to take her from the hospital they were turned back.

Thus far, the American authorities have refused to release her without the consent of the International Refugee Organization. She has been under the care of the Catholic Welfare Organization.

McMath Returns to Arkansas From Vacation

Hot Springs, Aug. 31 —(AP)—Hot Springs Prosecutor Sidney McMath still plans to bring former Hot Springs Mayor Leo P. McLaughlin to trial again before Jan. 1 on charges of malfeasance in office, for governor of Arkansas, returned McMath, Democratic nominee to his home here last night from a vacation trip to Colorado and reiterated a campaign promise to try McLaughlin again before leaving the prosecutor's office.

He had made a similar statement shortly after he won the gubernatorial nomination. McMath said the date for the next trial, which will be held in Montgomery county, had not been set.

McLaughlin, under 14 indictments and one information after his long dominant Garland county political regime was overthrown by McMath, was tried on one indictment charging bribery and was acquitted.

McMath said he would divide his time until Jan. 1 between his office here and the office he has established in Little Rock.

Lambert Critical of Olympic Officiating

Fayetteville, Aug. 31 —(AP)—Officiating at the Olympic games in London was poor in the opinion of Dr. Eugene Lambert, University of Arkansas basketball coach.

Lambert attended the games as vice chairman of the Olympic basketball committee. He returned home yesterday and had these things to say:

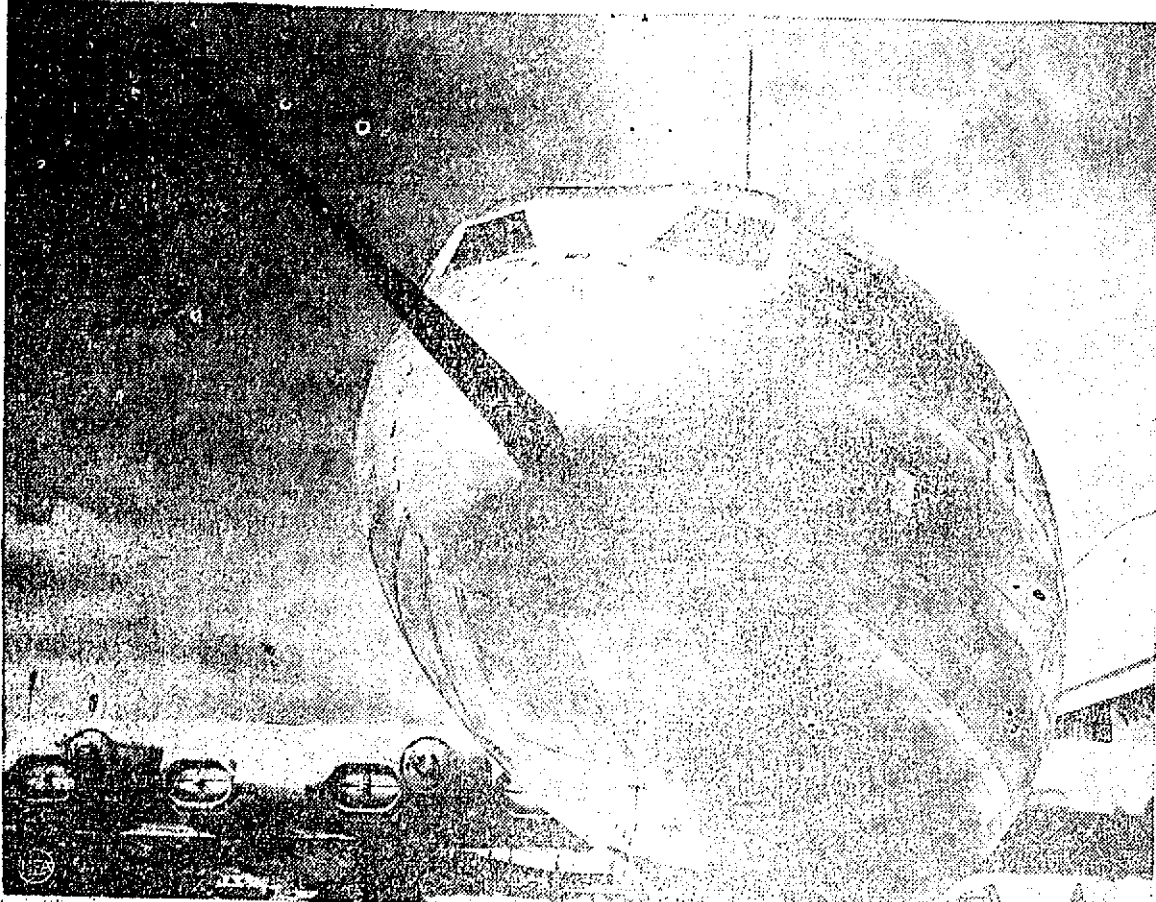

"The games seemed very successful. I enjoyed seeing Clyde Scott run. x x x Americans found British food hard to take. x x x"

"Officiating was poor during the basketball games because of the Olympic ruling that even referees must never have been paid for their services. This stimulated all American fans even though the officials were drawn from all over the world, they were not sufficient by competent."

Lambert pointed out that it was difficult for the Americans who won the basketball championship to play under the 1936 rules used in the Olympics. He added that modern rules will be used in the next Olympic games.

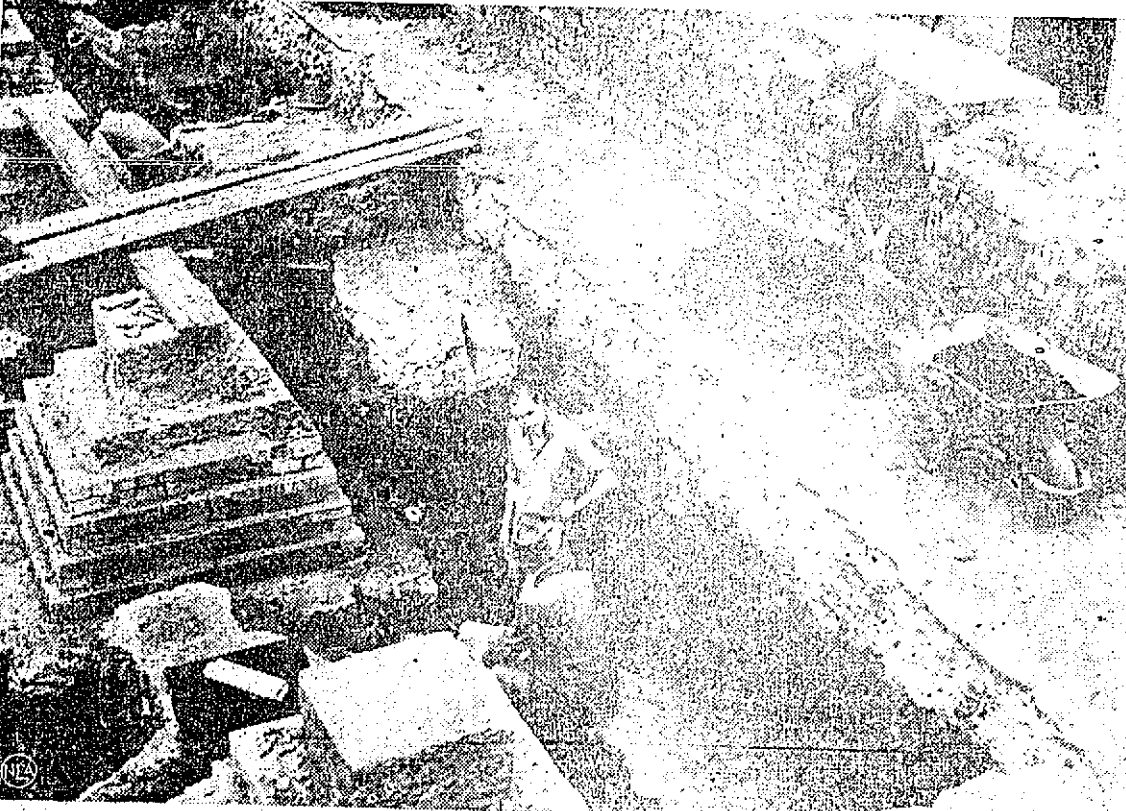

The basketball coach said British news stories were often "provocative and biased" and that "there was no mention of our winners" in the stories of Britain's newspapers.

Britain's Biggest Plane Makes Its Bow

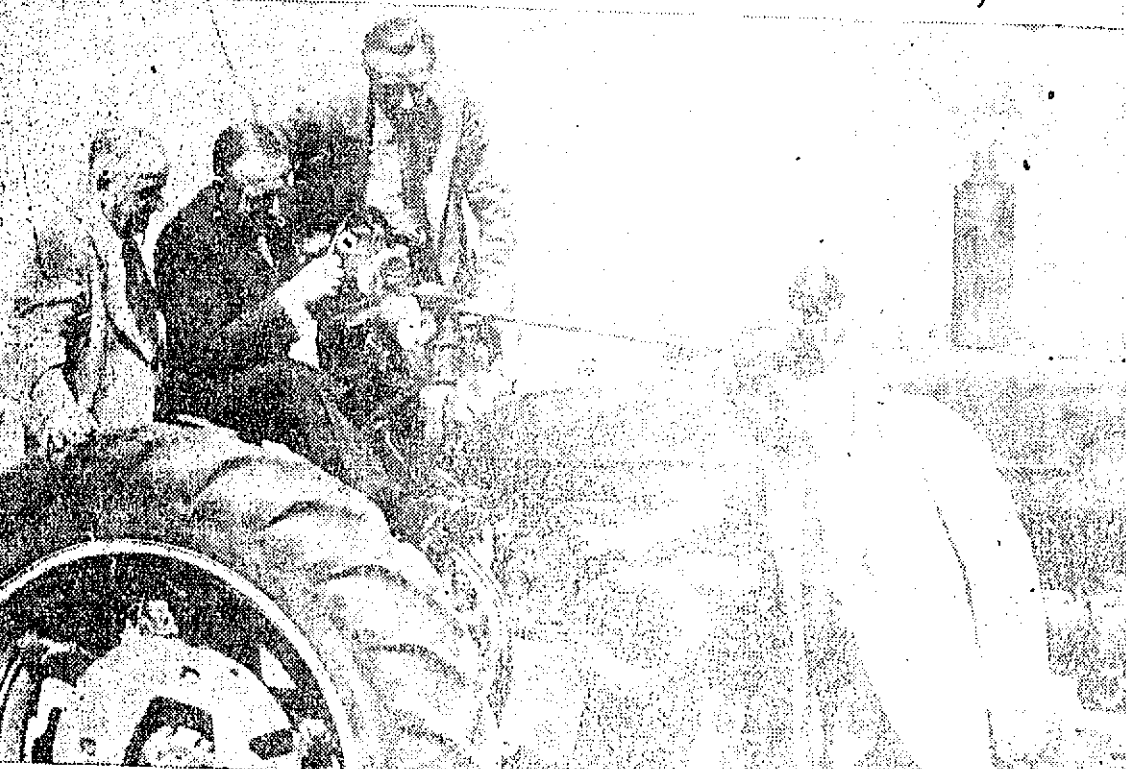

With the long wind gauge sticking out from its nose making it look like a fantastic, monstrous mosquito, Britain's largest land plane makes its public bow. It's the $24,000,000, 125-ton Brabazon. Second Class Signs for Draft Today

By the Associated Press

It was the younger-bracket 25-year-olds' turn today to step up and be counted for the peacetime draft.

Like their months older brothers, born between Aug. 30 and Dec. 31, 1922, who registered yesterday, the class of 1922 will jot down answers to 13 questions, then wait to see if they will be included in the army's first draft call of 10,000 men in November.

But not until some nine and a half million men 18 through 25 have filled out the questionnaires by September 19 will selective service officials be able to complete the job of classifying this vast collection of American youth.

Most of the 25-year-olds are expected to be included in the exempt action because of previous service or dependency ratings. Selective Service officials have indicated the bulk of future draftees will come from the 22 and 23-year old groups due to register later this week.

The army—which is getting all the November inductees—is expected to ask for another 10,000 draftees in December. Later, stepping up the pace to about 30,000 a month.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal in announcing the army's first call yesterday said the navy and air force are counting on filling their manpower quotas with volunteers, at least through next June.

The opening day of registration brought only scattered reports of draft resistors. The army said that while the 1948 version was being carried out swiftly, each registrant needed only about 10 to 15 minutes to fill out the postcard size forms.

Arkansans Register By United Press

The first peacetime draft went into its second day in Arkansas today with the 25-year-old men still the target of the 77 county boards of registration.

Leaves formed early yesterday morning, and soon the boards were doing a landoffice business.

The opening day of the draft had a nationwide significance for Arkansas, since Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, addressed the nation over a radio network from Hot Springs.

He issued a strong warning for adequate defense preparation that would discourage aggressor nations from invading the United States.

"To avert war," Hershey declared, "we should be so well prepared that aggressor nations would realize that it would be too expensive and futile for them to attack us."

At the end of yesterday's registration, the two Little Rock draft boards reported 491 men had signed up. Others over the state included Jonesboro 413, Fort Smith 250, North Little Rock 190, Pine Bluff 161, Hot Springs 125, Harrison 30, Blytheville 55, Texarkana 42, and several sub-boards in Sebastian county 75.

Too Much Oomph's Only Handicap

By VIRGINIA McPHERSON

Hollywood, Aug. 31 —(UP)—Cristine Cooper, who doesn't like to talk about it, admitted today she's Hollywood's "Too-much-oomph."

She's put together along lines that leave Jane Russell and Marie Wilson looking like 13-year-olds. But all it does is embarrass her.

"I was 15," she sighed. "Now it's gotten to be a kind of psychosis with me. I refuse to use my figure to get a job."

She's lost eight parts because of her "Too-much-oomph." Producers look at her face and cast her for sweet young things roles. Then they look at the rest of her and change their minds.

"She just oozes sex," one director said as he fired her from an expensive part. "I'm sorry. It isn't Christine's fault. It's just something she can't help."

She's known ever since her school days in Milwaukee, she says, that she could be a fine actress. But men won't stop whistling long enough to listen.

"And I won't compromise," she added. "I won't go in for cheapness to get publicity. I won't play a skinny siren. I can act. And some day some gentlemanly producer is going to come along and recognize what I have inside me."

Meanwhile, she tries everything short of an Alaskan parka to subdue her personality. She wears little girl dresses and flat shoes, and it's causing a sudden death to ask her to pose in a plunging neckline.

But the Cooper curves won't be camouflaged. She posed with Kay Kyser and a giant-sized sack of popcorn for a charity benefit. Kyser took one look and quipped: "You didn't have to put up that corn, boys. Just let Christine stand next to it. That'd do it!"

Miss Cooper's face turns pink as news when she has to step down the local walks.

"In the cold type really," she declared. "Practically a refrigerator. I didn't have a date till I was almost 20. Men have to treat me as budhies or I won't have anything to do with them."

Truman May Get Push From CIO

By JAME SF. DONOVAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

President Truman's bandwagon was expected to get a push today from the CIO.

The union's 51-member executive board, meeting in Washington, was set to give its official stamp of approval to the candidacy of Mr. Truman and his running mate, Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

The vote, however, will not be unanimous. About 10 left-wing union leaders were believed to be determined to continue their support of Henry A. Wallace and his Progressive Party ticket.

But CIO sources said the board's action still will assure the Democratic ticket of the active support of about 30 CIO unions about 5,500,000 members.

The CIO's expected endorsement of the president would come within a week after some 40 AFL unions decided to ignore the AFL's traditional "hands off politics" policy and to come out in favor of the Truman-Barkley ticket.

However, the powerful AFL Teamsters Union, whose president, Daniel Tobin, was a consistent Democratic supporter in Roosevelt days, voted in Chicago last night not to join the 40 pro-Truman affiliates.

The Teamsters' executive board decided to confine political activities to regional contests and urged members to put forth every effort to defeat congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act.

Mr. Truman opens his campaign next Monday, Labor Day, at Detroit. He is confident of election and one of his top advisers, former Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle, said there is good grounds for his optimism.

Returning from an incognito trip through the Midwest and Northwest, Biffle said he found that grass root sentiment is behind President Truman in his ardent support of the GOP-controlled Congress.

Other political developments: Dewey-Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was assured by Republican leaders of Maine that the state would continue to support the GOP. The state has gone Republican in every presidential election since 1912.

Dewey conferred with Frederick G. Payne, GOP candidate for governor of Maine, in New York City in the opening of a series of conferences with GOP political leaders.

Texas—With only 400 votes still to be counted, former Gov. Coke Stevenson led Rep. Lyndon Johnson by about 100 votes in their hot race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

GOP—Republican Campaign Manager Herbert Brownell, Jr., appointed Sen. Irving M. Ives of New York to be chairman of the All-American Campaign Committee. The committee will work for the GOP ticket among the foreign born.
